"DRY" COMMITTEE MAKES A BIG RAID IN FAYETTE COUNTY

Many Hotel Men and Bartenders Arrested for Law Violations

MORE ARRESTS TO BE MADE

A committee of one hundred, composed of business and professional men of Fayette county, are taking a hand in the enforcement of the Volstead act, and as a result thirty hotel and barkeepers were arrested in Uniontown on hursday. Today it is said that about twenty more will be arrested on warrants charging them with violations of the "dry" amendment. The warrants were sworn out before a local alderman.

It is alleged that liquor has been flowing freely in Fayette county for some time, and District Attorney William A. Miller says that before the end of the crusade of the committee all the violators of the amendment in the county will have been apprehended. The committee states that not only the hotel and bar keepers, but also police officials, will be implicated before the close of the crusade tomorrow night. The entire county will be searched but Brownsville, Connellsville and Uniontown are expected to yield the majority of arrests. Most of the men already arrested have been released on bail of $1,000. They will be given a hearing later in Uniontown.

A raid had been made in Uniontown by prohibition agents some weeks before election day, but very little liquor was found. It was intimated that the raid had been "tipped off" before it took place and that all those who dealt in liquor had an opportunity to remove their stocks.

The local committee, however, took a different course, and after organizing some months ago secured detectives from the Pinkerton and Burns agencies, in order to secure the evidence against alleged violators. This evidencce will be brought out at the trial. For the present at least it is promised that Fayette county will be one of the "dry" spots of the state.

TO HOLD DISTRICT S. S. CONVENTION

In the new Sunday School Association plan of the Washington County organization, Charleroi is the "Middle Monongahela District." The local schools of this district are preparing for a convention to be held in the First Christian church. Friday afternoon and evening, November 26th. The local committee is preparing a program in keeping with the needs of the up-to-date schools, and all divisions of the work will be considered. Out of town workers from Washington and Pittsburg have been secured and the sessions are expected to be interesting throughout.

CASINO RESTAURANT MAKES FINE DONATION

The Casino resturant, McKean avenue, which on Thursday, donated all of its receipts between the hours of 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. to the Charleroi Chapter of the American Red Cross turned over to Minnie B. Richardson treasurer, the sum of $114.20 as a result of the day's business. The donation was generous and was very greatfully received by the Red Cross

LUNKS LAND ON STOCKYARDS CREW

Arch Osborne and his bowlers staged a comeback last night at the Elks' bowling alleys and as a consequence d efeated the Packers by two games out of three. The Lunks won the first game by 62 pins and the second by 57. This seemed to get the Packers' goat, and the stockyard outfit got down to cases with the result that they won the final contest 130 pins. Capt. Osborne, McCloskey and Bateman rolled nice games for the winners. "Doc" Wilson had high score for the evening in the first game, his figure being 157 pins. The best bowling for the losers was done by Ed Wilson, Williamson and Jobes. Tonight the Trimmers and Cubs play game starts at 8:30. Score:

LUNKS—
Capt. Osborne	108	134	123—365
McCloskey	97	111	99—307

W. W. DARBY CLEARED OF ASSAULT CHARGE

At court on Thursday, in the suit of Valentine Perkowsky against W. W. Darby, et al., a claim for damages for alleged assault during the removal of some household goods from a house of the plaintiff in Charleroi, the jury found a verdict for the defendant. Quite a number of witnesses were heard by both sides of the controversy and the jury was not long in returning a verdict for the defendant.

REDUCE SHOP FORCES; BUT PLENTY OF WORK

Railroad officers do not hesitate to say that there is plenty of work to be done rehabilitating motive power and rolling stock, provided it could be done with reasonable efficiency and economy. Since last March when the railroads were returned to private management, an immense amount of repairs and rebuilding of cars and considerable locomotive repairs have been done by contract by outside shops. The locomotive and car building companies have probably done the larger part of this, but no small proportion of it has been done or is being done in other plants including a number which during the war were engaged in munition work.

Railroad officials say that wasteful and inefficient practices were established in their own shops during the Federal control and are now being corrected only slowly. The outside shops have been free to use the piecework method of wage payment and in other ways to adjust the pay to the value of the work performed. The railroad shops are still bound by the straight time basis, with time and half-time for over eight hours. The carriers have found it actually cheaper to go outside their own shops. Condition of railroad equipment as a whole and particularly on the large Eastern systems, has now improved so much as compared with last March that the roads find themselves in a position to reduce st forces without danger of falling behind current repairs.

CHAUTAUQUA CIRCLE IN STUDY OF ITALY

The Magic City Chautauqua Circle met Thhursday evening at the home of Mrs. W. B. Pfleghardt. The discussion of "The New Italy," the present book in the course of study, was productive of an interesting meeting. The labor laws wereof special interest, when the author states that many measures are before the governing body to protct workingmen, and that a new spirit is abroad that gives protection in industry to women and children. Ald age pensions is a subject much discussed, and where it is a part of the state law, it has been productive of much good. But the heavy burden of taxation is hard on thela boring man, and the "octroi," together with the other taxes, makes the laborers carry a heavy load. The lesson was fruitful of much discussion and many compariosns were made between the government of Italy and that of the United States.

DIRECTORS HAVE A PROBLEM ON HAND

East Pike Run township school directors on Wednesday commenced to prepare to meet the serious emergency caused by the burning of the Phillipsburg school building near California on Tuesday. The directors must make arrangements if possible to take care of the 250 children who are without a school to attend as a result of the fire.

With no building at Phillipsburg suitable or available to use, the directors are making efforts to secure a portable structure to be used temporarily. Probable transportation to California is also being considered. The directors were in conference with County Superintendent L. R. Crumrine on Wednesday regarding the situation.

It is not believed the directors will be able to have a school ready for several weeks, as it will be necessary to purchase new equipment, including text books, and it will require some time for these to be delivered. It is one of the most serious problems that hos ever confronted a school board in the county

BIG RIVER STEAMER MAY COME TO PITTSBURG

If negotiations now under way are successfully terminated, which it is predicted they will be, the big Mississippi river passenger and freight steamer, Kate Adams, will be brought to Pittsburg by the Liberty Transit Company, to operate between that city and Cincinnati on the Ohio river. The Kate Adams at the present time operates out of Memphis and is one of the best known steamers on the Mississippi. Bringing the boat to Pittsburg indicates a substantial growth of the passenger and freight business on the Ohio, which in recent years, was sadly negelected.

CHARLEROI CLUB HAS APPLIED FOR A CHARTER

The Charleroi Club of the American Association of Engineers has petitioned the National Association for a charter for a Chapter to be located at Charleroi, and to be known as the Monongahela Valley Chapter, A.A.E. The local organization now has about 30 members, with splendid prospects of increasing this number. The club held a meeting Wednesday evening at the borough building.

SPLENDID MUSIC FOR ELKS' WEEKLY DANCE

This evening at the Elks' Club "The Orchestra," featuring "Red" Carney at the piano, will furnish the music. Carney was formerly employed at the Duquesne Garden, and is regarded as a premier performer on the piano. These dances have been growing in favor and a large attendance is expected for the event this evening.

CHARLEROI PLAYS MONONGAHELA TOMORROW

Tomorrow afternoon the Charleroi High school football team will clash with the Monongahela High school team at Monongahela and a close and hard fought game will most likely ensue. The locals have practiced faithfully for this game when weather permitted and the members are in good shape for the contest. This game will draw a very large crowd of spectators, who will have an opportunity of witnessing a good football game. Some Donora men will be there to get a line on the locals for the Turkey Day clash at Donora. A large number of C. H. S. rooters will accompany the team and give the Monongahela supports a sample of C. H. S. cheering.

STEEL OFFICIALS INSPECT PLANTS

The chief officialsof the American Steel and Wire Company, headed by President William P. Palmer of Chicago, paid a visit to the three Donora plants on Wednesday and found them all in fine shape. The party arrived at Donora the night before on their private cars and were entertained that evening at the Americo Club. The next day the various plants were gone over and the local officials were highly complimented on conditions. Nothing was said of any new additions to the Donora plants, although people in the steel city are hopeful that with the coming of the new year something definite will be announced along that line.

RETURNS SO FAR GRATIFYING

John D. Berryman, chairman of the Red Cross Roll Call, in a statement made this morning on the result of the work done for the Red Cross membership campaign on Thursday, said:

"When the sun came out so bright we were filled with hope that we would have a splendid response to our appeal. We were equally sure that most of the one hundred and seventy-seven women named would assist in the canvass, as only four called up to be excused on account of sickness. We did have, however, forty-eight workers out in the canvass twenty-two of whom were placed at booths throughout the city, and twenty-six were given sections of streets to canvass

"Due to the fact that we fully expected one hundred more workers it became necessary to ask each pair or workers to take double the allotted space. This was done willingly and with good results. Almost three-fourths of thecity was canvassed and our workers will stay out until every section of the community has been given an opportunity to enroll in American Red Cross for the year 1921.

"The people, we feel, are alive to the great need to keep our organization going and we expect to get a large enrollment yet from those whom we were unable to see. There is sickness in many homes. Where a quarantine exists our canvassers could not go nor could any one help from such a home.

"We are very thankful indeed for the workers who came and equally thankful to the homes that gave them welcome. Let us continue to support the local Chapter until we attain some of the things that we have hoped to have for years."

All the returns of the canvass of Thursday havenot yet been handed in at the headquarters of the local Chapter, 524 McKean avenue, but these figures are expected to be availabl by tomorrow, when it will be possible to get some information as to concrete results. The returns, it is said, are so far very gratifying.

Deafness That Isolates.

Deafness does not necessarily spell stupidity, although a great many people seem to think so. There are any number of clever, intelligent people of good education and broad views who through illness or accident become hard of hearing—or partially deaf. Isolation is the hardest thing a partially deaf person has to contend with, and when one is denied general intercourse with others one is apt to grow selfish and self centered.

Bank of England.

The Bank of England is not a government institution, as is popularly supposed. It was projected by William Paterson, a Scotch merchant, to meet the difficulties experienced by William III in raising supplies for the war against France. Forty merchants subscribed £500,000 towards the sum of £1,200,000 to be lent to the government at 8 per cent, in consideration of the subscribers being incorporated as a bank.

Saving the Tin.

After trying many other processes of recovering tin from old cans there is now, according to La Nature (Paris), a return to the old-fashioned method of boiling the scraps (well cleaned) in a solution containing an excess of free alkali and saltpeter. The tin is recovered as crystals of stannate of soda and the alkali and saltpeter can be used over and over again.

Possible Economy.

One day when James was taking a walk with his grandmother they met a man who had his glasses so far down that he could easily look over them. After they had passed him James said: "Grandmother, why does he look over his glasses; is he afraid of wearing them out?"

TO BE INAUGURATED FRIDAY

Next President of the United States Will Be Sworn In on a Day Considered Unlucky.

Whichever of the two presidential candidates tacks his nameplate on the door of the White House next year will have to be inaugurated on a Friday. One-third of the 27 presidents of the United States were inaugurated on Monday and only three on Friday, one of whom, Lincoln, was assassinated, and Pierce failed of re-election.

Friday has always seemed to be a dark, drear and unlucky day for presidents. Tyler, Polk and Pierce died on Friday.

Leap year seems to have been mad. Presidential offspring of leap years have been Taylor, who died in office; Pierce, who gained neither fame nor a second term, and Johnson, the only president impeached. As a season for presidents to be born in, late spring and early summer are impossible, and the later summer is scarcely to be thought of.

No president ever was born in May or June, the only chief executives midsummer has provided the nation being J. Q. Adams, born in July, and Benjamin Harrison. With one exception, aside from the two already mentioned, presidential birthdays have been restricted to the period between October and April. Eight executives were born in late autumn, eight in winter and eight in early spring. The exception is W. H. Taft, born in September. Theodore Roosevelt was an October baby.—Detroit News.

WELL EQUIPPED FOR DEFENSE

British Adopt Defensive Measures for Big Aircraft That Have Been Considered Easy Prey.

The helplessness of dirigibles in the face of airplane attacks may be considered a matter of the remote past. It seems that dirigibles of the near future will carry fast single seater fighting airplanes along with them for the purpose of defending themselves against airplane attacks.

The British, who appear to have taken the lead in dirigible construction and operation away from the Germans, have been carrying on extensive experiments with airplanes carried by dirigibles. The giant airship R-34—the dirigible which crossed the Atlantic last summer carries an airplane suspended below it. The airplane can be reached by passing through a trapdoor and down a swinging ladder. At the opportune moment the airplane, with motor going at proper speed, is released from the dirigible, and after a very slight drop goes forth on its own flight.

The disadvantage, of course, is that once the plane is launched it is not possible for it to return to the airship, so that the latter will be as much at the mercy of a second attack from hostile planes as under old conditions. —Scientific American.

The late "Uncle John" Brashear of Pittsburgh urged that every man should have a hobby; and Matthew C. Brush, president of the International Shipbuilding corporation, would subscribe to that dictum.

The leader of the vast undertaking at Hog Island has a hobby that is singularly picturesque.

He is a warm admirer of the elephant. He holds that for the combination of strength, sagacity, dignity and fidelity it is the model beast. In his pocket he carries tiny ivory and ebony images of the mighty pachyderm. At his apartment there are little elephants to be seen everywhere—on the mantelpiece, on the piano, in every place of vantage. It is said that the recent census taken by their owner showed he possessed more than 300 of the tiny figures.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Extensive Forest Planned.

New York state will lead the nation in intensive application of forestry to idle lands, under plans now being formulated in Otsego county. This country, whose hills and valleys, lakes and streams formed the setting for Cooper's Leatherstocking tales, is organizing a system of county and township forests, on the basis of a survey by the New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse. The plan is for each township to plant a forest of roughly 100 acres as a starting point. The several forests will be part of the county system and will be connected with the highways to make them accessible from all parts of the county.

The flamingo will be protected by an order of council issued by the government of the Bahama islands, the National Geographic society announces. The birds nest in the marshes of the islands. The action of the island government followed an expedition which trailed the flamingo into the marshes and there took motion pictures of its habitat. It was estimated that since 1901 the number of the birds on the island has been reduced from 20,000 to about 7,000 by the depredations of sponge fishermen, who killed them for food.

Wasted.

"Say, I think I should have something back on the price of that cough sirup I got last week," the customer suggested.

"What was the matter with it?" the druggist asked in genuine surprise.

DEADED THAN ADAM

Insisting that the Wilson league of nations is dead, the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., issues the following statement:

"Shortly before the elections in 1918 Mr. Wilson issued an appeal to the voters to return a Democratic Senate and House so that support of his policies, one of which he had proclaimed to be the establishment of a league of nations, might be assured. The result was a complete repudiation of the President, and the election of Republican majorities in both Houses. On March 4, 1919, a round robin was signed by 39 Senators of the incoming Congress proclaiming to the world that the covenant of the league of nations as then framed by Mr. Wilson should not be adopted by the United States. On November 19 1919, the Senate rejected the league as it had been presented to it by the President, by the overwhelming vote of 53 Nays to 38 Yeas. On March 19, 1920, the Senate again denied endorsement of the covenant, even after it had been Americanized by the Lodge reservations, by the vote of 49 Yeas to 35 Nays, two-thirds being necessary for ratification. On November 2, 1920, the American people condemned the league again by an adverse plurality of upwards of 7,000,000 votes, after the question had been made the chief issue of the campaign following the edict of the President that there should be 'a solemn referendum' upon it.

"The league of nations has been thrice killed by the action of the people's representatives in the Senate, clothed with Constitutional powers to deal with such matters, and twice condemned by the people themselves through the ballot. Yet proponents of the league refuse to acknowledge the fact. They have the audacity to declare that Senator Harding, after his inauguration, will resurrect the two-year-old course, breathe new life into it, and make the United States a member nation, either with or without reservations. Norman Hapgood, representative of the league advocates, is reported as saying that the league will be adopted within a year. His views may be somewhat extreme, but they illustrate what is taking place in the minds of pro-leaguers.

"The sooner those men disabuse themselves of that idea the better it will be for their own peace of mind and that of others. The very votes that elected Senator Harding to the White House decreed that the United States should not become a member of the league. Even though there should be a complete reversal of sentiment in the Senate, it is inconceivable that President Harding would cast aside the mandate of the people and submit the covenant again to the Senate for ratification. He stands for an association of nations that will promote peace, but he is unequivocally against the league as we now know it.

"President Harding will never propose, and the Senate will never accept, an international agreement that confers jurisdiction upon a foreign council over American armies and navies; that agrees in advance upon a course of conduct that we will pursue in the event of more foreign wars; that surrenders the Monroe Doctrine; that permits a foreign tribunal to determine our domestic policies; that pledges the nation to a permanent policy of free trade; that submits to an exchange of trade secrets with all other nations; that permits Great Britain to wield six [illegible] to the determination of an international problem while the United [illegible] that agrees to [illegible] and the many others [illegible] independence [illegible] notorius covenant. Collectors' Troubles.

The high-flying species of Morpho which inhabit the mountainous districts of western America, are much easier captured than those which frequent the plains, though their capture is often attended with difficulty and danger, says the American Forestry Magazine. A naturalist hunting moths and butterflies in Bogota fell over a precipice and broke his arm, and then found that he had three days' journey to make on horseback before he could meet with a doctor to set it. Another naturalist, who was collecting in Bolivia, found that Morpho gordatti, Guer., a beautiful species, of a rather light blue, which was previously almost unknown to entomologists, frequented an inaccessible ledge in the mountains. He was obliged to have himself lowered by ropes over the precipice before he could obtain it.

Value of Pets.

We pity those who do not love animals and birds and do not care to make pets of them, remarks a writer in the Ohio State Journal. There is something about the association with the creatures of a so-called lower order which seems to enrich and deepen our humanity. The friendship which you enjoy with a faithful little dog, or the love you bestow on a good horse, or a useful old house cat—all these do not lessen our ability to love and care for little children and other humans, but rather enlarge our sympathies for all beings on the earth. These humble creatures with their faculties so different from ours, are able to give us something besides their service. Their trust and friendship contribute a special appreciation of life.

As to Causes of Longevity.

Most very old people are proud of their antiquity and like to hand their recipe on to posterity. Up to seventy, age is a thing to be concealed if possible, but when the Bible limit is passed safely, and the elderly person feels as fit as ever, he begins to take a pride in himself as a sort of conqueror of time. He develops a philosophy as a guide for others, the only difficulty being that few of the guides agree. Thus, many centenarians advise those who would emulate their achievement to get plenty of sleep—meaning eight to twelve hours at night, and a few naps in your spare time in the day. But along come some other old-age authorities, Edison, for example, and hold that six hours of sleep in twenty-four will give the best results.

Water in the Sky.

Science tells us that water in the atmosphere keeps us warm. If the air were entirely dry the temperature would be 50 degrees lower than it is. We should have hard work to keep from freezing. Without moisture in the air, there would be no rain, of course. The earth would quickly become a desert; so that, lacking food, we would soon starve to death anyway. One thing that rain does for us is to wash the dust out of the air. It makes the rivers run and provides us with water to drink. All of which are consoling reflections in which we may properly indulge during a spell of what we call bad weather.

Shakespearean Mementoes.

Medicine phials believed to have been used by Shakespeare during his last illness have been unearthed by workmen engaged in reconstruction of the famous bard's garden at Stratford-on-Avon. The bottles, with other articles of the Tudor and Jacobean periods, were dug from the soil, showing that they found their way there about the time of the dramatist's death. The spot where the articles were found is within easy throwing distance of the window of his house. The garden, which the great bard loved, and of whose flowers he often wrote so beautifully, is being laid out anew after the Elizabethan style.

I was on the road traveling and making only the small towns in a car. In one small town I met a girl and took her out for a ride; we got home early, and, well, she was rather a bore, so I told her I would have to leave as I had a terrible headache and wanted to get some sleep. After going back to the hotel a traveling man friend of mine said he was going over to see a friend of his and as there was an extra girl he wanted to know if I would go with him. I did, and much to my embarrassment I found myself being introduced to the same girl I had taken riding.—Exchange.

Rattler Need Not Worry.

If man was constituted as a rattler he could whistle at the high cost of living. The rattler has solved it for itself. This gentleman among the reptiles, which gives warning before it strikes, eats only two [illegible]—once in the spring, after it wakes up from its winter sleep and again late fall, when it retires to its long rest. It grows its own clothes too and is not compelled to burn black stones, charged for as coal, in the furnace. And any hole in the ground will do it for a home, so it evades paying rent.

Most Ancient Grecian Name.

The oldest name in Grecian history is that of Inachus, who is said to have founded Argos. Ogyges succeeded to him. He lived about the time when Lake Lopias poured its fertilizing waters over the wide plains of Boeotia. All these events happened in such remote periods that the traditions of the primitive world were distinguished by the term Ogygian.

YOU LOVE LIFE MORE

TRY TAKING PEPTO-MANGAN

If You Feel Listless and Depressed, Your Blood is Clogged and Sluggish

Without knowing why, you find yourself feeling unhappy. You go on and day after day half asleep. Interest in what is going on around you lags and life becomes dull. The beauty of radiant sunshine, lovely flowers and the entrancing miracles of life you miss entirely. Living, eating, sleeping, become more or less of a bore.

That is what clogged, sluggish blood does to you. It poisons your thoughts. You are only half alive.

You need a good blood-enriching tonic. Take Pepto-Mangan for a few weeks and notice the big improvement. Pepto-Mangan is an agreeable tonic and is heartily endorsed by physicians.

Your druggist has Pepto-Mangan in both liquid and tablet form. Buy whichever you prefer; one has exactly thesame effect as the other. Make sure you get genuine Pepto-Mangan. Ask for 'Gude's" and look for the full name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," on the package. Adv.

OHIO MILLS RESUME AFTER A SHUTDOWN

Eleven hot mills of the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company at Dover, Ohio, resumed work on Monday after being closed down for a week. One of the big furnaces of the Monongahela group of the National Tube company at McKeesport, was fired on Tuesday after an illness of three months, during which time it was completely rebuilt.

INFLUENZA

Guard the System against this Deadly Disease

The doctors say influenza in the virulent form of the past year will be prevalent again during the present season of wet and cold.

Now, as then, the danger is largely a matter of neglect. People lost their lives trying to "fight it off."

Watch for the symptoms—the cold, sore throat, slight chills and temperature, lassitude. Take proper precautions—keep the bowels open. Rest is what the body needs. Bathe the throat and chest with warm water to open the pores, and dry thoroughly; apply Krew-Pina; rubbing well into the skin; also, put a little into the nostrils. Then, lie down, draw the bed clothes up over the nose; inhale the medicinal vapors given off by the ointment. Repeat at intervals of several hours.

Krew-Pina is invaluable for emergency and general family use. Scientifically compounded entirely of simple home remedies, such as Oil of Pine and other volatile oils, it is unusually effective and absolutely harmless as well. Try it for inflammations of all description, including croup, bronchitis, tonsilitis, rheumatism, etc., and for sore stiff joints, burns, scalds, cuts and bruises. 30c and 60c jars—at your druggist's.

Free Sample OF Krew-Pina

A WOMAN DOCTOR

says, "Eugenics is a necessary factor in the future of the race. The average American girl is unfit for motherhood." This may be true, but if weak and ailing girls passing from girlhood to womanhood would only rely as thousands do upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—that simple remedy made from roots and herbs—to restore the system to a normal healthy condition, it would cause many ills from which they suffer to disappear, so that motherhood might become the joy of their lives.

GREAT WORK OF RED CROSS IN PENNSYLVANIA

MONEY CONTRIBUTED HERE IS SPENT IN HOME WORK

Enormous Number of Lives Saved by Red Cross in Influenza Epidemic, and Nursing and First Aid Activities.

The extent to which the American Red Cross has entered into the lives of the people at large in the Pennsylvania-Delaware Division, comprising the states of Pennsylvania and Delaware, is not generally known. During the past year, the first full year of operation under the comprehensive peace program, this great organization has given aid to more than half a million of the population of this state and Delaware.

The Public Health.

Of all these activities the public health and nursing service is the most far-reaching in its effects at the present time. The Red Cross is actively co-operating with Dr. Edward Martin, State Director of Public Health to aid in the betterment of the public health and he recognizes the power for good of the organization. Nursing services have been established by many chapters of the state, some of them being Erie, Corry (Erie County), Clarion, Brookville, (Jefferson County); Armstrong, Indiana, Westmoreland, Pittsburgh, Beaver, Mount Pleasant, (Westmoreland County); Washington, Fayette, Greene, Somerset, Clinton, Cambria, Tioga, Cameron, Ridgway, (Elk County); Franklin (Venango County); Du Bois (Clearfield County); Clearfield, Bellefonte, (Center County); Moshannan (Center County); State College (Center County); Huntingdon, Fulton, Juniata, Franklin, (Franklin County); Wayne, Lebanon, Wyoming Valley, Wilkes-Barre, (Luzerne County); Pike, Greater Berwick, (Columbia County); Danville (Montour County); Monroe, Carbon, Catasauqua, (Lehigh County); Allentown, Mahanoy City, Bethlehem, (Northampton County); Harrisburg, Southeastern Pennsylvania (services established in Bucks, Montgomery, Chester and Delaware Counties); Wallingford (Delaware County); Lancaster, York, Donora, (Washington County), and four established in the state of Delaware.

During the first six months of the year in the nursing service in Pennsylvania, the public health nurses made 44,537 visits. There are now sixty-five nursing services established and eighty-four nurses are employed in the public health services.

The astounding number of visits made during the year to the sick who are unable to secure proper attention for themselves may be seen when it is considered that each nurse makes about 115 visits a month. In the Tioga chapter, for example, the three nurses employed by that Chapter made 1516 calls, and about this same proportion is maintained in the other Chapters. In another Chapter, prompt Red Cross measures prevented an epidemic.

Scarcely second to the public health education and nursing service, are the classes for the teaching of First Aid to the Injured. In the United States as a whole, there are about 100,000 fatal accidents annually, and fully 500,000 which do not result fatally. Pennsylvania, as a great manufacturing and mining state, with about one-twelfth of the population of the country, can therefore count on at least 8500 fatal accidents and about 45,000 non-fatal ones each year.

But a non-fatal accident may easily result in the death of the victim unless prompt and efficient aid be given, and this is what the Red Cross First Aid teaches. It is impossible to estimate the number of lives saved in Pennsylvania and Delaware by the Red Cross during the past year by means of its First Aid classes, but it must be a very considerable number.

During the first six months of 1920 the Red Cross conducted 41 First Aid classes in which there were 1245 students, of whom 711 received certificates of graduation. This number will be greatly increased before the close of the year.

Among the Chapters which have added first aid courses to their activities are: Erie, Crawford, Warren, Brookville (Jefferson County), Oil City (Venango County); Punxsutawney (Jefferson County); Armstrong, Indiana, Butler, Beaver, New Kensington (Westmoreland County); Pittsburgh, Latrobe (Westmoreland County); Donora (Washington County); Mount Pleasant (Westmoreland); Somerset, Fayette, Greene, Snyder, Greater Berwick (Columbia County); Danville (Montour County); Southeastern Pennsylvania (Philadelphia) and the Delaware Chapter.

During the Epidemics.

No stronger evidence of the efficiency and preparedness of the Red Cross can be shown than in the influenza epidemics of the past two years. By a prompt mobilization of the Red Cross nursing resources thousands of lives were saved in Pennsylvania, and the Red Cross Chapters stood gallantly by the families of the victims, giving food, fuel and money where necessary, until the unfortunates were again self-supporting. Fully 100,000 cases were administered to in this state and Delaware by the Red Cross, and many lives were thus saved which otherwise would have been sacrificed.

The teaching of Home Nursing by the Red Cross is another most important activity. Ninety per cent of all cases of illness are nursed in the home and with this percentage, home nursing is of the first importance.

During the first six weeks of 1920, the Red Cross conducted 226 classes in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick, 77 instructors teaching 2845 students, most of whom passed satisfactory examinations.

This great record was made by a large number of the Chapters, as the Home Hygiene course is instantly recognized as a thoroughly practical one and it is taught by actual demonstration as well as precept. Tioga County graduated 420 pupils and Lycoming, Potter, Union, Kane, McKean County, Wilkes-Barre, and many other chapters had notably fine records.

This activity grew out of the war, and among those Chapters which have secured permission to extend home service to civilian families are Mercer, Beaver, Titusville (Crawford County); Forest, Oil City (Venango County); Punxsutawney (Jefferson County); Indiana, Perry, Westmoreland, Latrobe (Westmoreland County); Fayette, Somerset, Wyndber (Somerset County); Cambria, Huntingdon, Mifflin, Juniata, Harrisburg, Southeastern Pennsylvania, covering Philadelphia, Bucks, Chester, Delaware and Montgomery Counties; Southern Schuylkill, Carbondale (Lackawanna County); Easton (Northampton County); Adams, and the Delaware Chapter. A number of other Chapters have made application for this permission.

In the first part of 1920 Home Service has been rendered in about 20,000 cases, excluding entertainments given by the Red Cross, the attendance at these entertainments reaching about 160,000. Thus Home Service alone came into contact with almost 200,000 persons in the state.

Specific cases of what Home Service has done might be multiplied indefinitely. The Harrisburg Home Service paid for a delicate and expensive operation, which gave a hopelessly crippled little boy the normal use of his legs and will enable him to become a useful member of his community. The Scranton Home Service helped a blind soldier open a store which he is successfully conducting and made him a self-supporting citizen instead of a dependent upon others. Cases such as these might be mentioned in almost every Chapter in the state. In Fayette County Chapter, Home Service handled 2300 cases in the first half of the year and the Beaver County Home Service and Juniors together have provided for tonsil and adenoid operations for children unable to pay for these.

Baby Welfare Clinics.

The Red Cross pays especial attention to the health of the baby and in the first half of 1920 baby welfare centers were opened by 30 Chapters with enormously good results. A few of the Chapters doing this great work are Southeastern Pennsylvania (at Ardmore and Coatesville); Greater Berwick (Columbia County); Carbon, New Bethlehem (Clarion County); Latrobe, Indiana, Delaware and many others.

It is impossible to say how many little lives were saved by the Red Cross and how much suffering averted, but the [illegible] is undoubtedly very large.

But the work of the Red Cross for the people of Pennsylvania did not end here. There were many special activities conducted by Chapters. The Delaware Chapter maintains a very efficient Motor Corps which takes the nurses from place to place, rushes desperate cases to the hospitals and gives pleasure rides to the aged and the poorer children; the York Chapter has a mental hygiene dispensary which has done remarkable work in its specialty; dental clinics are conducted by the Lawrence County and many other Chapters; Armstrong County, New Bethlehem (Clarion County), and Kittanning (Armstrong County), as well as some other Chapters, have opened free community centers and rest rooms, maintained by the Red Cross Chapters; Berks County (Reading) has a remarkably successful continuation school to enable those who must work, to continue their studies.

Shippensburg Chapter (Cumberland County), has supplied clothing to children who otherwise would be unable to obtain it. In Carlisle, the same county, there is an ideal Nurses Recreation House at the hospital, provided by the Red Cross; Corry (Erie County), has started a Little Mother's League; Blair County, as well as many other Chapters, conducted First Aid Tents at the County Fairs; Wyoming County has a big Nursing Class and an established Health Nurse; Milton (Northumberland County), has established a Health Center as have many other Chapters of the Division, while Bedford distributed 600 garments to the poor of the county, besides furnishing them with food, fuel and supplies. Junior activities are notable in the Bradford and McKean Chapters.

"On this proud record of a year the Red Cross asks the people of the Pennsylvania-Delaware Division for its endorsement in the coming Roll Call. All this, and far more, has been done on one dollar memberships. Every resident of these two states who has the welfare of his community at heart should join the Red Cross in the 1920 Roll Call, November 11, Armistice Day, to November 25, Thanksgiving

EX-STATE POLICEMEN CONVICTED BY JURY

Ira C. Stevenson and Robert S. Schell, former state policemen, were found guilty in the United States District Court at Pittsburg on Wednesday of unlawfully possessing and transporting whiskey. The verdict was given 20 minutes after the closing address to the jury. The trial lasted two days. Witnesses for the government said the two former state troopers seized a truck containing whiskey on a road near Altoona. While the truck and whiskey were in their possession it was taken from them by Federal Prohibition Agent Harold McCarthy.

JEWELS USED IN WATCHES

Hard Substance Is Needed to Withstand the Constant Friction Which Wears Away Moving Parts.

The principal reason for the deterioration of any piece of machinery is because the constant friction wears down the moving parts and interferes with the regularity of the mechanism. A watch, being a machine in which absolute uniformity of speed is essential, it is necessary to reduce this friction to a minimum—either through constant oiling, the use of ball bearings of some very hard material which will withstand the wear and tear of constant friction. The first two of these methods are not feasible in so small a piece of machinery as a watch, so certain very hard jewels are placed at various points to counteract the rubbing caused by the moving parts.

Watches are generally equipped with 7, 15, 17, 18, 21 or 23 jewels, the 15 and 17-jewel types being the most popular. Intrinsically, the jewels used in the manufacture of watches are of little value, but from the standpoint of service and the specific purpose which they serve they are invaluable. The jewels usually used in watchmaking are the hardest of the precious stones, diamonds, sapphires and rubies, and of these the most generally used is the sapphire, which combines hardness with comparatively reasonable price.

POWER IN RADIUM WATCH

Owner of Radiolite Timepiece Is Also Possessor of Vast Power Plant.

The possessor of a radiolite watch or one having a radium dial by which the time can be detected at night, is also the possessor of a vast power plant of no mean proportions, according to a writer in the Electrical Experimenter. There is sufficient radium on your watch to haul your train home if it could be properly applied, says this author.

As the matter stands, the innocent-looking radium dial does not seem to possess any extraordinary amount of concentrated energy, but this is only apparently the case, and not actually so, for the reason that while the amount of activity manifested by the radium paint on the dial is small, this effect will keep up for 2,500 years, provided the zinc sulphide, with which the radium is mixed so as to produce a glow, holds out that long. The zinc sulphide in most cases gives out in about eight to ten years.

Now, if we could but find a way to make the radium release all its energy in a few hours, instead of spreading it over 2,500 years, it would not be difficult to make a motor that would utilize this energy.

Seeing Through Other's Eyes.

We all have our natural tendency toward a bias of one sort or another. When we see through other's eyes we also add their bias to our own. There is a possibility that one bias will counteract the other. If so it is well. It is also possible that one bias will add very greatly to another. Then what an unfair verdict you must render. Poor judgment is sure to follow and shame will lay at your door before you dream it possible. Yet most of us are to more or less extent guilty of the habit. It's so easy to take our start from where others leave off. We are compromised to the extent that we lean on their judgments. It isn't fair and often leads to sorrow.

Don't make too much fun of the other fellow's glasses. He may be badly biased, but then you have no means of knowing how you look in his eyes. We are all more or less influenced by our heredity and environment. So the wise thing is to get all the facts possible before we pass judgment.

Unique Moccasins.

Braves of the Passamaquoddy Indians at the Pleasant Point (Me.) reservation do a thriving business among summer visitors by the sale of moccasins made from the feet of seals. Seals are prolific in Passamaquoddy bay. The Indians kill many of them each year. The hides are tanned and used for various purposes and the feet are worked up into footwear both for their own use and for commerce. The fact that there is always a claw, or nail, left for each of the five toes makes these articles of footwear unique and gives them an appeal to the tourists who visit the reservation.

Eve was reputedly barefoot, and Nausicaa played ball all the better because she went unshod.

Helen of Troy at the most wore sandals, and the sandal is the compromise between the shoeless and the shod. It is easier to make sandals than to make boots.

In Ireland and Scotland the children have run barefoot for many a day, and the wit of the one and the enterprise of the other show that there is nothing really demoralizing in going without shoes and stockings.—London Chronicle.

A Slight Omission.

Reggie—Just as I was leaving the house to come to the club my wife pelted me with flowers.

"But that doesn't account for your bruised and battered appearance."

"No, you see, she forgot to take them out of the pots!"—From the Edinburgh Scotsman.

"Dixie Land."

A monograph in the London Financial Times on the history of the old Citizens' bank of Louisiana, at New Orleans, reveals the origin of the name "Dixie land," the term applied now to all the southern states and preserved in the famous southern war song, "Dixie." Prior to the Civil war the Citizens' bank, having the power to issue paper notes, issued several millions in bills in denominations of $10 and $20, but mostly $10. The $10 bills were engraved in French with the French word "dix" featured on their backs. The bills became known as "dixies," and, this money becoming popular, Louisiana was referred to as the "land of the Dixies," or "Dixie land." Eventually the term was so broadened as to apply to all southern states. This seems a very acceptable explanation of the origin of the term, which has been the subject of so much discussion.

Gas Meter Most Accurate.

Put 100 of the best watches against 100 gas meters in a test for accuracy, exposed to the same varying conditions of heat, cold, humidity, and the meters will win out every time, says a bulletin. The gas meter is regarded as one of the most accurate measuring instruments in use today. Like the registering turnstile in parks, railroad stations and fair grounds, the meter will not operate unless something passes through it. The mechanism is not set in motion and the indicator hands cannot move except as gas passes through and makes them move. It is interesting to know that the original mechanical principles adopted in 1844 for the correct measurements of gas still persist, and that while hundreds of inventors have endeavored to discover something better, they have improved upon details only.

Conquered by Gentleness.

Of all the conquests of Alexander the Great, Egypt enjoyed the earliest and most lasting prosperity. As soon as Ptolemy, the son of Lagus, had gained possession of this country, it resisted the attempts of others by the advantages of its natural situation. Ptolemy soon acquired the reputation of equity and gentleness by which he gained the favor of the people and the confidence of other kings. About 284 B. C. Egypt became the chief seat of the sciences of Greece during the reign of Ptolemy Philadelphus. The grandeur displayed by this prince in architecture became proverbial. He and his son were patterns of wise and virtuous monarchs. But the later Ptolemies did not conform themselves to such models.

Held Heart in High Esteem.

During the Middle ages the heart, believed to be the seat of the affections, was an organ of great importance after death and lords and ladies, kings and queens, gave orders to have their hearts sent to a sweetheart, relative, or to a church in a silver cup or golden vase. Sometimes it was embalmed and placed in a silver casket as was the heart of Bruce intrusted to his faithful Douglas, who wore it suspended from his neck. In the cathedral of Rouen, the old French city, ancient capital of Normandy where Joan of Arc met her death, lies the "lion heart" of England's first Richard, and the hearts of many other history makers of olden times rest far apart from the body.

On the Falkland Islands.

Who that would get his hair cut in the Falkland islands seems committed to a long wait in the barber shop; but perhaps the Falkland islanders are not fussy in this particular, and the one barber may be less busy than might be imagined. The population of the islands consists largely of shepherds, guardians of about 700,000 sheep, and shepherds, as a class, are perhaps poor patrons of the barber, nor apparently do the islanders have much need of bricklayers, of whom there is one to keep the barber company; nor of house painters, of whom there are two. Shoemaking is more active, for there are four shoemakers.

Nearly all of our United States moths and butterflies are easily captured, but not so with many of the tropical ones of the latter-named group says the American Forestry Magazine of Washington. The South American species of Morpho are magnificent insects. The great long-winged orange species are fully nine inches in expanse and have a lofty, sailing flight, while some of the species with broader and shorter wings, such as the black-bordered M. menelaus, have a lower, but very rapid flight through the forest, and settle occasionally. The high-flying species very rarely come within reach.

Great Chinese Encyclopedia.

The Great Encyclopedia of China, commenced at Nankin in 1408, is the greatest literary undertaking ever known, over 2,000 scholars having been engaged in its production. It comprises 22,877 separate sections, bound into 11,100 volumes, each half an inch in thickness. There used to be a copy in manuscript of the "Tung Lo Ta Tien" which, on account of the enormous expense involved, was never printed. A verbatim copy made in 1567 and stored at the Hanlin college Peking, was attacked by fire in 1900. Only about 100 volumes were saved.

Influence of Weather.

"Under the weather" is founded on fact. Epidemics are caused by atmospheric influences, affecting those who lack resistance, through wrong living. And atmospheric conditions depend upon the sun.

LESSON IN LIFE OF EMPRESS

"Vanity of Vanities; All Is Vanity," Never Better Exemplified Than by Unhappy Eugenie.

In the middle '70s I had, for several years, a suite of rooms in a hotel in St. Gall, Switzerland. Returning from one of my periodical trips to England, the proprietor informed me that he had taken the liberty of permitting a lady and her attendant to occupy the rooms for a night, as the hotels were all full. She was a middle-aged woman, of sorrowful aspect, dressed in black, and walked with a cane, and although traveling incognito, was recognized by one of the hotel staff as ex-Empress Eugenie, widow of Napoleon the Little, who owned a chateau near Schaffhausen.

That was about 1874. And only a few weeks ago this unhappy woman, who had long been tired of life, died at the age of ninety-four.

What a sad and checkered career! Born in Spain, of an unassuming aristocratic family, raised to the glittering throne of the second empire, leader of Europe's fashion and frivolity, losing, within a few years, her throne, her husband and her son, then, an exile, visiting from time to time, like a black ghost, the scenes of her former triumphs.

CANNOT SIGNAL TO MARS

Scientist Shows Impossibility of Earth Having Communication With Our Neighboring Planets.

In attempting to communicate with Mars there are several factors that must be taken into consideration. Henry Meier of Center college summed these up at a recent meeting of the Kentucky Academy of Science. He said that in the first place the probably low temperature, rarefied atmosphere and absence of water on Mars are against the existence there of beings similar to ourselves. In the next place signaling by light must be given up, for the reason that the earth's atmosphere would absorb 40 per cent of the light sent out, and the distance was so great that an area of light ten miles square on the earth would, if seen from Mars through a telescope magnifying 500 times, appear like an area one inch square viewed at a distance of 500 feet. In considering signals by radio it has been computed that it would require a current of a million amperes at the sending station to obtain one of one ampere at a receiving station on Mars. And Mr Meier remarked that the powerful electric current sent out by the sun would probably overwhelm the weak waves sent from the earth.

Canadian Oil Production.

Over 90 per cent of the production of crude petroleum in Canada is still obtained from the oil fields in southern Ontario according to the preliminary report of the mineral production of Canada during the calendar year 1919, prepared by John McLeish, B. A., chief division of mineral resources and statistics, Canadian department of mines. These fields have been producing for 58 years, but production has been supplemented during recent years by a small annual production from New Brunswick and Alberta. The total production of crude oil from these fields in 1919 was 240,970 barrels of 35 imperial gallons, having a value of $744,067, as compared with a total production in 1918 of 304,741 barrel, valued at $885,143.

Builder of Soils.

Most of the fame that has come to the humble cowpea has arisen from its extremely practical value as a builder of soils and as a feed crop. It is a legume and, plowed under, its vines give the needed humus to soils lacking this necessary quality.

Its name isn't poetical, either, but it is entitled to a place among the most beautiful flowering plants in this country. Its color is our variegated sweet pea. In blossom a field of cowpeas, with their dark, glossy leaves, looks exactly as if a myriad host of purple butterflies, each with two yellow spots on its wings, had settled upon it for a momentary rest, and when the wind blows the resemblance is even more marked.

Although no son of romantic Erin would be expected to deprive the world of twilight, J. G. Sullivan has contributed to the Canadian Engineer strong mathematical arguments that lengthen night at the expense of the lover's hour.

As the result of personal observations Mr. Sullivan would correct the standard statement of encyclopedias that twilight continues until the sun has fallen at least 18 degrees below the horizon. It will be near the truth, he thinks, to say that twilight ends when the sun's decline is about 11 degrees.

Not So Wrong.

"Don't you think, dear, that it would be a good plan to let me select the stocks for you to buy and sell?" his wife suggested.

"Why, you don't know anything about the stock market," he said.

"No," she responded sweetly; "but it's a poor rule that won't work both ways—and I've observed that it is those who know all about it that generally lose."

WATCHES GIVEN SEVERE TEST

Bureau of Standards at Washington Will Give Certificate of Accuracy to Any Timepiece.

Comparatively few people know that any person can send his watch to the bureau of standards at Washington for testing to ascertain if it qualifies as a timepiece of the highest grade—designated as "Class A."

The privilege is used chiefly by watch manufacturers, the Illustrated World tells us, who accompany each tested timepiece with a government certificate.

To ascertain the accuracy of a timepiece it is placed in a large glass-front refrigerator, equipped with automatic devices that keep the temperature at a fixed point, in which the watch "runs" for stated periods at various degrees of heat and cold. When the regulator has been set, the flow of cold air from the ice chest above the watch chamber is controlled by a thermostatic device, and, when necessary, warm air is introduced from the outside. The three temperatures at which all watches undergoing the test are kept are 45, 70 and 95 degrees Fahrenheit.

To qualify in "Class A," a watch must not vary more than four or five seconds from correct time, and, in addition, it must be able to repeat its performance in a variety of positions and under varying conditions. In all there are eleven specifications in the test, some of them involving technical calculations.

Any variance made by the watches under test from correct time is recorded by means of a chronograph.

HUGE PYTHON "RAN" SHIP

Little Doubt That Reptile Was in Supreme Command, at Least for a Few Hours.

How a huge python took possession of the British steamship Bolton Castle for a brief period during her recent trip from Singapore to Victoria, B. C., was related by officers and passengers of the vessel on her arrival at the Canadian port.

Three of these monster serpents were being shipped to the Bronx zoo in New York, and in some unaccountable manner one of them managed to make its escape. The whereabouts of the snake was a matter of anxious conjecture among the crew for a couple of days, until in the early hours of the third day out the quartermaster was precipitately driven from his post at the wheel by the appearance of the monster in the pilot house doorway.

The vessel was allowed to drift for a couple of hours, until, armed with every available weapon, some members of the crew undertook a stealthy raid, arriving just in time to see the snake leave the pilot house and glide into the sea. The creature was said to measure 30 feet in length.

Flowers for Heroes.

In this country the long-lasting little flowers called "immortelles" are comparatively little known. In France, however, they are grown in enormous quantities for the decoration of graves.

Nearly all of the immortelles produced in France are grown in the neighborhood of the village of Ollioules, which is in the South not far from Toulon. The harvest begins in May and lasts ten days, a period called the "decade of the immortelles."

They have to be picked very early in the morning, when half-open, for they wither. Usually they are sold by weight. The war has brought prosperity to the village of Ollioules, because of the increased demand for immortelles for the graves of soldiers.

Where Silver Is Plentiful.

The standard of value in Potosi, Bolivia, for everything from sweethearts to cities is the Silver Hill of the Thunderer. Willis Knapp Jones in Travel gives a picturesque history of the wonderful Bolivian silver mine and the town which spent $10,000,000 celebrating the coronation of King Philip II of Spain. As the legend goes, when the early Indians started digging there for silver the mountain shook and thundered: "This hill is not for you. It belongs to a race which will come later." In this strange town silver was more plentiful than bread.

That American women have the true sporting spirit and are learning to give no favors in the game of life is shown by the successes made by several of them in regard to the recent demands by the women of Paris for separate cars on the subways. One woman in this city, a dancer by profession, was the first to [illegible] and in a subway car in New York city, where she [illegible] supply and as strenuously objected to [illegible] of superiority which [illegible] be found on [illegible] cars and, [illegible] by most [illegible] in the world.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Not Safe Any More.

Harry came home about five o'clock, and his hands and face were very clean and his hair stood on end. His mother took one look and exclaimed: "Harry, I told you not to go swimmin' with Bob Ross."

"How do you know that I have been swimmin'?" asked Harry.

"Never mind who told me, but I know that you have been swimmin'," replied his mother.

After a while Harry said: "I'll just bet you anything that Mrs. Ross was over here this afternoon and you and Mrs. Ross had that outja board out."

HOW KNOWN TO BE CLOUDS

Up to Year 1900 the Projections on Mars Had Been Thought to Be Mountains.

The first observers of projections on Mars had attributed them to the same cause that produces projections on the moon—that is, mountains. Such they were said to be in France and at Lick. This view, however, was in 1892 disputed by W. H. Pickering, who considered them to be not mountains, but clouds. This view was supported by A. E. Douglass, who observed them in 1892 at Flagstaff, Ariz. The mountain theory of their generation was shown to be untenable and their ascription to clouds proved to be the correct theory in December, 1900. Only a single projection was visible in 1900, 1903 and 1905. As a mountain does not change its place, and as nothing was seen where something had been visible, the phenomenon was proved to not be a mountain peak. Now the only other thing capable of catching the light before it reached the surface would be something suspended in the air—that is, a cloud. Deductions, therefore, from the rarity of the phenomenon alone showed that the projections must be clouds. Furthermore, the projection was smaller after the lapse of 24 hours. The something that caused it was not only not attached to the soil, but was moving and dissipating as it moved along. Clouds are the only bodies known to us which account for these metamorphoses. Clouds, then, and not mountains, are the explanation of the projections of Mars.—"Mars and Its Canals," by Percival Lowell.

LONG LOST USE OF WINGS

The wingless birds of New Zealand are particularly interesting to the nature student as illustrating the process of evolution. Nowhere but in their native land could these birds have survived, and, therefore, nowhere else would they have become wingless. New Zealand is the only region on earth where there are no destructive animals. Being unable to fly, the birds could not, of course, have escaped from any swift hunting animals such as abound in all other lands. It is interesting to note that the kakapo, or ground parrot, once had the use of its wings, but being a grass seed feeder and finding no enemies on the ground gradually ceased to fly and eventually lost the use of its wings entirely, though it can run very swiftly. These birds are so gentle and so unconscious of having any enemies that if a person sits down near one and keeps quiet it will presently tuck its head under its wing and go to sleep. The kakapo breeds but once in two years, and the mother bird carefully hides the nest from her mate, though why she does so is unknown, the male showing no desire to harm the eggs or young birds. In this infrequent breeding is demonstrated nature's thoughtfulness—having no destructive enemies the kakapo would multiply to too great numbers if the breeding season occurred as frequently as with other birds.

Raising Bamboo in Louisiana.

The department of agriculture tells the people of this country that experiments in Louisiana show that Chinese and Japanese bamboo may be grown there and that the cultivation of some varieties may be profitable.

Mention is made, for instance, of Phyllostachys pubescens, which one may eat as a salad when the shoots are six or eight inches above the ground, or which may be used for timber later, as the "shoots" reach a height of from 60 to 70 feet in three weeks.

The bamboo, we are told, may be used in building operations or for telephone poles or spars, hence it is recommended as a source of wealth to those who live in southern Louisiana. It may be profitable to them, but folks in the North feel that the Louisiana residents will find it more profitable to continue to raise sugar cane and the price of sugar, remarks the Hartford Courant.

Owls, as is proper in the case of birds of such renowned solemnity and secluded habit, have always exhibited a particular liking for Oxford, where more than one college, but particularly Worcester, has its colony.

Recently they have established a new colony in the ivy-covered walls of the Bodleian library and the Tower of the Five Orders, in the Old Schools quadrangle.

Members of the Bodley staff now occasionally find relaxation from their duties by rescuing the young birds which find their way down on to the pavement of the quadrangle, and are unable to fly up to their nests.—Westminster Gazette.

Washing Rugs.

When either rugs or small carpets require washing dissolve four ounces of good white soap in four ounces of boiling water. When cool, add five ounces of glycerin and two ounces of chloroform. Bottle and cork well for use. When needed add one teaspoonful of the preparation to a pail of tepid water and wash the carpet with a flannel and soap in the usual way. One wash will have a wonderfully cleaning and brightening effect. Stretch out on a flat space, tightly nailing the corners or sides if necessary.

J. W. Berryman & Son

Charleroi's Busy Store

Charleroi, Pa.

Chance Not to Be Missed.

It was Willie's first visit to the country, and after going with his uncle to feed the stock in the barn, he ran back to the house, shouting: "Oh mamma, come quick! Uncle Jim has a whole circus in his barn, and he is going to feed the animals!"

Many Will Not Believe It.

A Boston minister says that women are the best accountants. This is hard on the men after all the experience they have had in accounting for themselves the next morning.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Absolutely No More Twins.

A year ago last Christmas twins came to Bobby's house. As last Christmas drew near grandma asked Bobby what he wanted Santa Claus to bring. "Well," he answered, "most anything, except no more twins."

New York's Great Fire.

One of New York's greatest fires started on Sept. 21, 1776, six days after the British captured the city. Trinity church and 493 other buildings were destroyed, says Gas Logic.

Planets Without Moons.

The only planets that have no moons are those nearest the sun, namely Mercury and Venus. Counting our own moon, the system of planets possesses no fewer than 27 moons.

Too Many Missing Periods.

Mary was in the hospital for some time and did not see as much of her mother as she would have liked, and bewailed the fact by saying: "Oh, mamma, I only see you at the tops and bottom of these days and I don't like it a bit."

New Coffee Berry.

A coffee berry free from caffeine grows wild in Madagascar forests south of Fort Dauphin. The tree is usually twelve to twenty feet high with smaller leaves than those of the ordinary coffee tree, and a yellow instead of red berry.

Horse's Decorations.

The brass decorations frequently seen on the harness of a work horse are a direct survival of the amulets which bedecked the horses of the time of Julius Caesar and the ancient Egyptians.

Flour From Many Products.

Chinese millers make flours out of wheat, barley, oats, rye, buckwheat, chestnuts, millet, potato, peanuts, peas, beans, lentils, pulse, rice, almonds and fifty other vegetable substances.

Personal Preference.

A New York man sent his bride a kiss by wireless. So far as kissing is concerned we much prefer the old-fashioned method.

Tobacco Seeds Almost Dust.

The seeds of the tobacco plant are so minute that a thimbleful will furnish enough plants for an acre of ground.

Tree Stump Oil Valuable.

An oil obtained from stumps of red pine trees has been found to be valuable for recovering silver from pulverized ore by the flotation process.

White Island.

Albion—White island—the ancient name of Britain—was probably given to it by the Gauls, on account of the white cliffs on the southeast coast.

Ancient Diamonds.

Diamonds were known and worn as jewels in India 5,000 years ago and used as cutters and gravers 3,000 years ago.

A Looking-Back Word.

A woman always has time for reflection when she sees a mirror.—Cartoons Magazine.

On the Tide.

Why Nurses Wear Blue.

When a woman declares there is no use talking what she means is that there is no use in anybody else talking.—Columbia Record.

Cotton in Day of Herodotus.

The earliest mention of cotton was by Herodotus, who spoke of it as tree wool, the name it still bears in German and other continental languages.

Banana Stalks for Horses.

Chopped banana stalks, used as soon as the fruit has been harvested, have been used in Queensland for feeding horses.

Infinitesimal.

Powerful Magnets.

Electro-magnets have been used to lift as much as 60,000 pounds of steel castings in one operation.

Observatories.

The northern hemisphere has more than 200 public astronomical observatories to less than 20 in the southern.

And Hardest.

It has been our observation that it is the ripe scholar who fails the quickest.—Dallas News.

Unwoven Persian Rugs.

The author of a book called "When I Was a Boy in Persia" says that certain rugs used in Persian houses have not yet found a place in the American market. These are large felt carpets called lumta. They are made, not by weaving, but by beating the wool together and then pressing it. They are very thick, warm and noiseless, with red, cream and white borders, and with a field dotted with red, black, white, green, blue and golden circles of wool—quite a Joseph's coat in color.—The Outlook.

Celluloid.

Celluloid, from which many toilet articles and imitations of ivory are made, is composed from the cellulose found in cotton cloth or raw cotton. It is treated with a solution of nitric acid which forms it into a pulp very much like paper pulp. It is then washed with water, which removes most of the acid. It is partially hardened and camphor gum mixed with it, when it is rolled into sheets and thoroughly dried. To manipulate it, it is softened by steam and then hardened by drying.

Why Frankfurt.

King Carl the Great (Charlemagne) was once defeated by the Saxons, and fled with his Franks to the Main. But they could find no fording place by which to escape the pursuit of their enemies. Suddenly a cart appeared and made for a spot where it crossed easily, thus showing the Franks where the river was fordable. So they came across the Main, and the place has ever since been called "Frankfort" (the ford of the Franks).

Biblical Information.

The Lookout prints the following information about the Bible: "The Bible contains 3,566,480 letters, 810,697 words, 31,173 verses, 1,189 chapters, 66 books. The longest chapter is Psalm 119, and the shortest is Psalm 117. This is also the middle chapter. The middle verse, however, is Psalm 118:8. The longest name is in Isaiah chapter 8."

"The Vicious Circle."

Most people conclude that this phrase, which we hear so often nowadays, is of recent origin, but Amiel, the Swiss philosopher, who died in 1881, said, "I turn in a vicious circle." There is also evidence that the phrase was in use as long ago as 1792, so we have not even the comfort of a new discovery

To Destroy Red Ants.

Soak a sponge in sweetened water, wring and place where the ants have easy access to it. They will swarm over it and through it. Drop the sponge in boiling water and repeat the operation until the colony becomes alarmed at the loss of its workers and abandons the premises.

When Collector Is Lucky.

During Siam's intercourse with China for many centuries in the past unknown quantities of the finest china were brought over for the noble and royal households of Siam, and occasionally some of these pieces may be found and bought.

Infringement Resented.

In New Guinea each tribe has its own particular system of tattooing the body, and should a member of any other tribe imitate the pattern, it is regarded as quite a sufficient reason for a declaration of war between the two tribes.

Giving Him His Due.

"Oratory is a gift, not an acquirement," said the proud politician as he sat down after an hour's harangue. "I understand," said the matter of fact chairman. "We're not blamin' you. You did the best you could."

Grecian Girl Provides the Home.

In some parts of Greece no girl can ever hope to find a husband until she has a home of her own. Hence, providing his daughters with houses is an onerous duty which falls to the lot of every father.

Kissing Once Custom at Dance.

Down to the middle of the Victorian era it was considered quite the proper thing in England for a man to exchange kisses with his fair partner at the end of a dance.

Another reason why it would be impracticable for a man to carry a fur muff is because he would soon ruin it by wiping his mouth on it.—Arkansaw Thomas Cat.

The Useful and the Beautiful.

The useful encourages itself; for the multitude produce it and no one can dispense with it; the beautiful must be encouraged, for few can set it forth, and many need it.—Goethe.

Poison in Bee's Sting.

The secretion of a honey bee's sting is about six-thousandths of a grain two-thirds of which is water. The rest is the poison.

Pavement of Human Skulls.

There is said to exist a pavement at Gdawfa, Africa, in the making of which thousands of human skulls are alleged to have been employed.

Synchronicity.

Married life will never be a complete success until the baby and its parents get sleepy at the same time.—Boston Transcript.
